Home Staging by Pro Vision Home Staging

Visionary home stager, Melissa Wilhoite, has been re-imagining living spaces her whole life. With years of experience staging and selling numerous homes, it is immensely satisfying to see others gain the advantage of maximizing their property's value through home staging.

Owners are often concerned about getting through the selling process. But the transition from daily life, to selling your home, doesn't have to be insurmountable.

Let Melissa help you:

- Re-envision your property, inside and out, for potential buyers.
- Highlight the best features of your home.
- Take the guess work out of making your home ready to sell.
- Simplify preparation for showings and open houses.
- Get organized for your move.
- Prepare your home for a photo finish.

Home staging doesn't have to begin and end with selling your home! Most people who experience the home staging difference, find themselves wishing they could have had their homes staged while they were living there.

The solution is simple! Pro Vision Home Staging can take the same visionary approach used to sell your property and apply it to your new home! Take the stress out of unpacking, by having a plan to help you maximize your new space and help you make that new house your home.

Whether applying her professional organizing skills, enhancing a home in which to reside, or staging a house to sell, home staging any property with Pro Vision Home Staging can help you get the most from your property.

This living room had a wonderful fireplace that was barely noticeable among the over-crowded, closed in space. Melissa re-designed this living room with an unburdened furniture layout; opening up the room, highlighting the fireplace, and giving it a spacious, inviting feel.

This loft space was cluttered and crowded with too much furniture. It was an undefined space in sore need of an identity. By decluttering and the use of proper furniture placement and decor, this wonderful, open space is transformed into a lovely and useful home office.

This master space was dark and outdated. The garden tub was a distraction, instead of an asset. With an updated, brighter, and neutral paint color, this master bathroom comes alive. New wood trim fits out the garden tub into an asset of distinction.

MELISSA'S TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN RETAIL BUYING AND SELLING, HAS GIVEN HER significant experience in recognizing what people are looking for when they buy or sell. Together with her home staging vision, and attention to detail, homeowners can profit from the sale of their property.

Melissa helped one homeowner sell their home in a neighborhood where values had drastically declined. With five similar homes for sale on the same street, some for a year, her staging vision helped the homeowner sell within two weeks for near $45,000 above the earlier projected value. That's money in their pocket!
